

the Judas Priest

Handout - The Judas Priest

Let's all join forces

Rule with an iron hand

And prove to all the world

Metal rules the land

The Judas Priest is one of Satan's most faithful servants. He travels Planet Metallica on his motorcycle, tassels and leather coat fluttering in the wind, preaching the truth of the four pillars and the threat of the posers. He is known by all people and tradition demands that you hearken his wise words.

One would be wise to adhere to the tenets of the Judas Priest, for he is not afraid to give those who do not a proper beating. He is proud, stoic and wise, an experienced champion of the four pillars, who is always ready to give advice or share a story with those who would seek his counsel. The Judas Priest is a conservative man who puts his stock in the ancient ways. It is not necessary to think for yourself, since Satan himself already has shown the way through the four pillars.

For this reason, The Judas Priest is strong in the pillar of Traditions, and approves of the rituals and traditions that the servants of Satan have lived by for millenia. Being bound by traditions also makes the Judas Priest rigid in his beliefs and reluctant to accept change. He refuses to innovate or improvise, because he has the old ways to live by, but this he will have to learn, if he is to save The Four Pillars from the posers.

Jawbreakers

Deadly as the viper peering from its coil

The Judas Priest is respected by all people of Planet Metallica, but sometimes people need to be reminded of that respect. For this reason, the metal priest always carries a set of knuckle dusters forged from a heavy alloy of uranium and steel, that he calls his Jawbreakers. With these solid nuclear weapons, the Judas Priest can deliver blows that would make even the biggest meathead or the most terrible monster think twice, before crossing him again.

The Hellion

Flying high on rapture, stronger free and brave

Whenever the Judas Priest thunders across the steppes on his motorcycle, he is always followed by the mechanical steel-bird known as The Hellion. The Hellion is a magnificent being, and the cybird is both intelligent and extremely dangerous, with its laser eyes, razor-sharp claws and powerful beak. The bird is the mightiest of its kind and willingly serves The Judas Priest out of respect for the metal priest and his works.

The Electric Eye

Feel my stare, always there

The metal priest has travelled far and wide, across all of Planet Metallica. On one of his journeys he encountered the Norns residing under the life-tree Yggdrasil. The Norns offered the Judas Priest great wisdom if only he would sacrifice one of his eyes. When the metal priest returned to The Kingdom of Steel, his empty eye socket was fitted with a complex electromechanical eye that not only allowed him to see, but also to shoot powerful bolts of lightning from his eye.
